

Global Project Management Company Releases 2nd Installment of Online Training

Proper Utilization of Project Estimating is Second Installment in Successful Training Series for Integrated Consulting

Houston, TX (August 29, 2011) – Integrated Consulting (<http://www.icpcs.com>), a global project management / project controls organization, is pleased to announce the second installment in their successful online training solution series: Project Estimating. These Training Solution Products are in response to the increasing demand from project management professionals, from varying industries, for low cost and convenient continuing education and training. Students are able to log in from their home or office, alleviating the need to be out of the office for a 2 or 3 day class and the low price enables individuals to further their knowledge without seeking corporate subsidy. The webinar and the online training are eligible for PDU/CDU credits.

The training is provided in 2 parts for each installment. The 45 minute, free webinar, “Intro to Estimating” will be on Wednesday, September 7, 2011 at 11:30 AM (CST). This webinar will explain the concepts that support and drive successful project estimation, regardless of the software utilized.

On Wednesday, September 14, 2011 at 11:30 AM (CST), the in-depth, comprehensive online training, “Fundamentals of Estimating TIC Projects” will be offered. This 90 minute session is $49.99 and is an extension of the free webinar. The class will address the four stage estimating processes and how it aligns to the project life cycle. A CD of the class and sample estimating policies and checklists to facilitate implementation will be provided.

Available for purchase are CDs of each online training session. At $49.99, the CD provides the audio of the online class, the presentation, all supporting documents and question and support offer. Registration and CD purchase is secure and convenient on the Integrated Consulting website.
